Annual Report 2005

Events Covered

Glastonbury, Tewkesbury Medieval Fayre, Larmer Tree, Cambridge Folk Festival, Buddahfields, Stainsby Folk Festival, Big Green Gathering, Wychwood Music Festival.

Sadly this years Earthwise did not happen due to poor ticket sales.

Our new event for the year was Wychwood which took place on the race course @ Cheltenham, a brand new event for the organisers, a wet week end and sadly poorly attended, but an event with a great future.

Society of Homeopaths Conference

We attended the last of the Autumn annual conferences in September which took place in Nottingham. We gained a little support and this event saw the launch of our new re worked and re-coloured t shirts.

We decided not to attend the HMA Congress and not to even supply inserts as we had in 2004, mainly because the effort and expense resulted in nil feed back.

Volunteers

Following the success of the film (The Homoeopathic Experience) we had a larger than usual intake of volunteers. This resulted in two very well attended training days. Thanks to Lucia Christodoulides we were able to use the Oncology departement in central London for our London day. However, due to the increased interest in working with us we were unable to ensure that all volunteers were able to work at an event of their choice.

The Garden

The garden remained a feature in 2005 and self sufficnecy was our aim for 2006.

Website

We finally decided to make revamping the website a priority. Work on this has begun with Graham Gabie of Timesbid.

Renewables

At Galstonbury Festival we purchased a new solar panel. Thaks to Steve Wade of Wind and Sun who kindly tidied up our wiring and monitoring system by replacing it all with a very high tech and spec system.

Equipment

We also purchased two bell tents, new signage and other equipment required to run two smaller satellite rigs. One of these is going to be manged by Saskia and the other is for the northern branch to be managed by Angie Zarjac.

Funding

We had more interest from students/homoeopaths who wanted to come and work with us and this meant an increase in the overall number of supporters we have.

We intend to continue raising funds by further promoting The Homoeopathic Companion and encouraging all Homoeopaths, students and members of the general public to support us.

We would also like to thank all our volunteers for their hard work and dedication. Without their help and support we would not be able to promote to Homoeopathy to the wider public.
